APPENDIX 'E' MEDICAL ARTICLE - HEART ATTACK
TO FORCE ORDERS NO. 3708 DATED 2018-06-28

Heart Attack Risk Factors

Your risk of having a heart attack

There's no one cause for heart disease, but there are risk factors that increase your chance of developing it. The more risk factors you have, the bigger your risk is of a heart attack or stroke.

You might not know you have some of these risk factors. The best way to find out your overall risk is to see your doctor or health practitioner for a HEART HEALTH CHECK.

If you've already had a heart attack or stroke, read more about looking after yourself to avoid another.

Risks you can't change

There are a few risks you can't do much about:

- Age: As you get older, your risk of heart disease increases.
- Gender: Men are a higher risk of heart disease. Women's risk grows and may be equal to men after menopause.
- Ethnic background: Heart disease death rate is particularly high among the African American.
- Family history: If someone in your family has had a heart attack, speak to your doctor or health practitioner about your risk.

Risks you can change

Most heart disease risk factors can be changed, and there's plenty you can do about them.

APPENDIX 'E' (CONT'D) TO FORCE ORDERS NO. 3708 DATED 2018-06-28

Smoking - Being smoke free is one of the best ways to protect your heart. If you are a smoker, you should stop. Cessation of cigarette smoking constitutes the single most important preventive measure for CHD. Persons who smoke 20 cigarettes/day have a 2 to 3 fold increase in total heart disease. Continued smoking is a major risk factor for repeated heart attacks.

High Cholesterol - An imbalance of cholesterol in your blood can lead to a heart attack or stroke.

High Blood Pressure - Blood pressure isn't usually something you can feel. If it's too high, it needs to be treated. Regular checks with doctor or nurse can help you monitor.

Diabetes - It's important to manage your diabetes to help prevent a heart attack or stroke.

Being inactive - Not getting enough physical activity and sitting too much isn't good for your heart health.

Being overweight - Being overweight or obese increases your risk of heart disease and other health problems. The best thing you can do is to achieve and maintain a healthy weight.

Unhealthy diet - Eating a varied diet of healthy foods can help with your weight, blood pressure and cholesterol levels.

Depression, social isolation and lack of quality support - We know that there can be a greater risk of her heart disease for people who have depression, are socially isolated or do not have good social support. Having a good social life with family and friends can help. Depression is more than feeling sad or low. If you feel depressed for more than two weeks, talk to your doctor, a family member or someone you know well.

Risk assessment, tests and appropriate interventions are provided at the Medical Services Branch locations include the National Police College of Jamaica, Twickenham Park, St. Catherine and our Harman Barracks Wing.

We also have a mobile island wide Healthy Lifestyle Program for police officers and civilians working with Jamaica Constabulary Force. These assessments, tests and appropriate interventions are provided by medical team which includes nutritionists (diet), physiotherapists (exercise), social workers, psychologists, psychiatrists, nurse and medical doctors.

Feel free to call 749-5268/749-0470 or extension 69103/69107 and make an appointment to be assessed or visit Healthy Lifestyle Program when it is in your area.
