SERIAL NO. 4080

Sub. No. 1 THE COMMISSIONER'S CORNER

Greetings again my distinguished Colleagues.

I trust that you have been having a great week. Please join me in offering heartfelt congratulations to all our colleagues who have earned national awards this year. I want to especially recognize our hard working and committed Deputy Commissioners of Police, Mr. Andrew Lewis, Mrs. Karina Powell-Hood and Mr. Warren Clarke for receiving the Order of Distinction (Officer Class - OD). It is truly remarkable that their unrelenting contributions to public safety and security in Jamaica are most appropriately recognized.

These national awards are beyond mere decorations; they are symbols of trust and gratitude from the people of Jamaica. They speak to the values we are called to embody - duty, integrity, and unwavering service in the face of challenge. Such recognition reminds us that even in the moments when our efforts go unseen or unheralded, they are never without impact. They represent the legacy of your efforts and contributions in saving lives, preventing crimes and making our communities safe. Once again Colleagues, congratulations!

Unfortunately, it is necessary for us to once again speak to another very sad incident where one of our dear colleagues and his family were cowardly and brutally attacked by hoodlums. Constable Michael Morgan of the Lottery Scam Task Force lost his wife Latoya, after she was senselessly shot and killed, and his son Zamir shot and injured on Saturday evening last.

Constable Morgan is still being treated for injuries he received in the incident, while his son is on life support. Words cannot express my sympathy to Constable Morgan and the family and friends of his wife Latoya. While we cannot undo this evil act, we knew our response would have to be swift and decisive. And so I want to express deep appreciation to our Colleagues whose response have led to the confrontations that unfortunately went violent, leaving two top tier members of the gang that organized it, and the actual shooter, dead; and the female who ordered the hit, in custody. Our members thankfully came out without injuries. Please join me in offering words of prayer for the speedy and full recovery of Constable Morgan and young Zamir.

And so, while we continue to see a significant decline in violent crimes, especially murders and shootings, there still exists these evil among us in the society who believe it to be a good idea to murder an innocent woman, her five year old son, and her husband, a police officer. And so even with the strident effort of some in trying to cause us to relent, we make no apology confronting these cowards and facing them down. Even with our effort in trying to get it through to them that we do not want to engage them in violent confrontation, they continue to choose that path to their certain demise, hoping that those who support them will be successful in having us relent. We will not!

And so, Colleagues, I want it to be known, once and for all, that we, the men and women of the Jamaica Constabulary Force, will never bow to fear; we will never shrink from our duty; and we will never allow evil to dictate the course of our nation's future. Those who imagine that brutality against our members or their families will weaken our resolve could not be more mistaken. Every such act only steels our determination and unites us more tightly in purpose. We stand as guardians of this country, and we will not permit criminals to terrorize communities or challenge the authority of the State.

And since these Corners go beyond our walls, let me speak to the criminals who still believe they can outlast us. Hear this clearly: we are relentless. We are resolute. We will continue to pursue you, dismantle your networks, and expose you for the cowards that you are, stripping away the false bravado that you hide behind. I want to make it abundantly clear, lest I am misunderstood, our actions are not in pursuit of revenge, but rather for the preservation of life, peace, and the rule of law. And as long as we wear this uniform, as long as we draw breath, the JCF will never surrender Jamaica to the hands of cowards. And so, Colleagues, I want you to read carefully and absorb this Corner well, so you understand the message clearly. We are the thin blue line between order and chaos, and we will not break.

Let me wish for you and yours a blessed, peaceful and safe weekend. Until next week, walk good.

APPENDIX 'A' (CONT'D) TO FORCE ORDERS NO. 4080 DATED 2025-08-14

1.0 Introduction

The appearance of a police officer provides the opportunity for a first impression not just of the individual officer but also of the organization served. Uniforms donned by members of the JCF are intended to and do provide a recognisable source of safety, support and trust. Research suggests that the psychological influence evoked by the presence of a uniformed police officer has a powerful sway on how members of the public perceive the servant of the people who is vested with the powers of the state. The quality standards of an organization are reflected, to a great extent, in the deportment of its members.

As a constantly evolving organization, the JCF has reviewed its guidelines on its dress code to ensure that they are aligned with contemporary policing standards and is committed to its vision to 'become a high-quality professional service that is valued and trusted by all the citizens of Jamaica'. This reviewed Dress Code Policy and Standard Operating Procedures provides the framework on which the organization will ensure that members represent the Jamaica Constabulary Force professionally, consistent with its values and image.

DIGITAL FOOTPRINTS: THE INTERNET NEVER FORGETS

Every click, share, like, and search you make online leaves behind a hidden trail of data known as your digital footprint. Whether you're updating your social media, shopping online, using apps, or simply browsing the web, you're constantly leaving behind traces of data. This invisible trail forms a detailed picture of your habits, preferences, and identity.

In this digital age, your footprint can influence job opportunities, relationships, reputation, and even your safety. For organizations, the digital footprints left by employees and partners can be even more critical, potentially exposing sensitive data to cyber threats if not properly managed.

In this article, we'll explore what a digital footprint really is, how it's created, the risks it poses, and most importantly how you can take control of it to protect your privacy, your identity, and your future online.

What is Digital Footprint?

Digital Footprint is the the trail of data you leave behind whenever you use the internet. It includes both the information you actively share (like social media posts, photos, and comments) and the data that is passively collected about you (such as your device type, location, browsing behavior, and preferences).

This footprint is created every time you interact online, whether you're visiting websites, clicking on ads, shopping, or working remotely. Over time, these interactions build a digital profile that can reveal a lot about who you are. That profile can be seen by others, including potential employers, service providers, and even cybercriminals.

In personal life, your digital footprint can affect your reputation and privacy. In an organization, it can pose security risks since sensitive information left behind by employees and partners can be tracked and exploited by threat actors. That's why it's important to understand, monitor, and manage your digital footprint to protect your identity, your data, and your overall digital presence.

Types of Digital Footprints

Passive Digital Footprints:

Theses are collected without your explicit knowledge. For example, websites might track your browsing history, geolocation, and the device you use. Data left unintentionally or unknowingly. This data is often collected through monitoring tied to your IP address. Websites and applications may install cookies on devices without disclosure, use location tracking or log your activities.

02/03

Active Digital Footprints:

These are all the data you consciously share online.

For example, when you share social media posts, send an email, filling out online forms or agreeing to browser cookies. This adds to your active digital footprint.

How your Digital Footprint impacts your Organization

Reputation

Your online behavior can impact the organization's reputation. If an employee posts inappropriate content or makes negative comments online, it can reflect poorly on your brand and harm its reputation.

Trust

Internal and external stakeholders trust organizations that value professionalism and ethics. An employee's digital footprint showing unethical behavior or inappropriate content can harm that trust and damage customer relationships.

Protect your Digital Footprint
