APPENDIX 'A' (CONT'D) TO FORCE ORDERS NO. 3991 DATED 2023-11-30

1.0 Introduction

Domestic violence is among the incidents which most frequently come to the attention of the police. If interventions are not timely and effective, the issue can become detrimental not only to the immediate parties, but also to the wider community. Effective management of reports of domestic violence is also critical in order to build and sustain confidence in the police.

The term 'domestic violence' and 'domestic abuse' can be used interchangeably to describe the range of actions or omissions in relationships (including past relationships) where the perpetrator maintains power and control over his/her victim. Perpetrators' actions may include physical, sexual, psychological, emotional or verbal abuses and threats, while omissions include but not limited to confinement and or deprivation of physical, financial and personal resources. The impact of domestic violence/abuse can be extremely traumatic and often the victims suffer mental and psychological complications as well as a range of physical injuries and even death.

The most common form of reports of domestic violence in Jamaica is spousal abuse. While both sexes are affected, women and girls constitute the majority of victims and men the main perpetrators.

Consequently, the domestic violence protocols have been reviewed to incorporate a more contemporary and robust prevention and protection framework which treats with incidents from the first report to the final resolution.

- 8.5.10 The sub-officer to whom the report is made shall examine the circumstances and, if deemed necessary for safety of complainant or connected party, may further arrest the accused for a period not exceeding twelve (12) hours from the time of the initial arrest.

- 8.5.13 An entry must be recorded in the Station Diary/SRMS detailing the justification for this release.
- 8.5.14 If the risk remains high and imminent, the sub-officer shall make submissions to a Gazetted Officer who may further keep the accused in custody for a period not exceeding twenty-four (24) hours.
- 8.5.15 An entry must be made in the Station Diary/SRMS outlining justification for this action.
- 8.5.16 If, after a review, it is determined that the risk of imminent violence remains, the accused shall be taken before a Justice of the Peace to be remanded no later than twenty-four (24) hours from the time of the initial arrest.
- 8.5.17 The necessary diary entries are to be made with appropriate justification at each stage.

N.B. Preventative arrests do not require the consent or approval of the complainant or victim. What is needed is that the arresting officer has reasonable suspicion that a felony has been committed or is about to be committed; or that the arresting officer
