9TH OCTOBER, 2025

SERIAL NO. 4088

Sub. No. 1 THE COMMISSIONER'S CORNER

Evil Has No Justification

Greetings again my distinguished Colleagues.

I trust that you have been having a great week at work and at home. The month of October, and the final quarter of this year started well with a very low number of murders, until that was broken by the unfortunate, gruesome, barbaric and senseless murder of 5 persons, and the injury of 3 others on Sunday the 5th day. The murdered victims included young Shannon Gordon who was only 4 years old, while 11 year old Azari Miller is struggling for life from gunshot injury. Baby Shannon did not get the opportunity to grow up, while these murderers are being sheltered and protected by someone somewhere. I witnessed a father of one of the deceased openly cry and lament the loss of his son who had not yet given him a grandchild. I observed a grandmother weeping over the loss of her grandson who she said took care of her, as she spoke with the Most Honourable Prime Minister. I heard the hollowing cries of loved ones in deep grief, as they expressed their utter fear of remaining in their homes located in what was once a peaceful Jamaican country community. Now 5 of its citizens are dead!

Colleagues, when many hear about murder or offer public commentaries on the subject, what exists in their mind's eyes are numbers and percentages. Many do not see what we saw on Sunday and the hundred other murder scenes to which we must attend each year. Many have no idea what it is like to process a scene with multiple murdered victims. But we have, over and over and over again. And so, we make no apologies for our intolerance and dislike for those who continue to kill and maim our citizens.

Many, who see murders and shooting injuries as mere numbers and percentages, want us to believe that these hoodlums are to be treated as young men who the State has failed and have lost their way. For some, it is always from the perspective of the criminal perpetrators, and never from that of the victims. But it is us, from whom some are professing to be protecting our citizens - we, who are on the frontline every day, standing between these monsters and our citizens, providing support and assurances when these criminals manage to pull one off that we were not able to prevent. And yet we are to be lectured to about human rights from the comfort of air-conditioned offices. Protecting the lives of our citizens by putting yours on the line, is the epitome of upholding human rights.

Let us be clear, Colleagues - there is no justification, no excuse, no social narrative that can sanitize the deliberate taking of innocent lives. The images we carry in our minds from these scenes are not easily erased, but they must strengthen our resolve rather than weaken our spirit. We cannot allow the brutality of a few to numb our compassion or erode our commitment to protect those who depend on us most. Every time that we have to respond to these acts of evil, they must remind us of why we serve, and why our duty is sacred. The cry of a grieving parent, the hollowing wail of a broken community - these must echo as a call to action, not despair.

In this final quarter of 2025, let us double down on our operational focus and community engagement. The citizens we serve are looking to us for reassurance that despite the horror of these moments, Jamaica is not surrendering to fear. We will continue to pursue these murderers relentlessly, and we will do so with professionalism and undistracted focus. Let this tragedy reignite our shared determination to secure every community and reaffirm the Jamaica Constabulary Force as the steadfast guardian of our nation's peace and conscience.

Colleagues, let me wish for you and your families a blessed and peaceful weekend. Until next week, walk good.

Situational Analysis – Environmental Scan

[The situational analysis provides the context and knowledge for planning. A situational analysis describes an organization's position and general state of internal and external affairs. It is useful when defining the organization's capability, opposing forces, and its customers to determine the crucial steps that the organization needs to take to be successful and satisfy customer demands. A combination of tools can be used to conduct the situational analysis. Some of the tools recommended are the SWOT Analysis, and Stakeholder Analysis].

[Factors to consider when doing a situational analysis

- Service Standards – Evaluate current service standards; and the extent to which services being offered adhere to organizational standards. You should view this from the customers perspective (internal and external customers), and the extent to which their needs are being met.
- Competitive Situation - Analyze your main competitors and determine how they compare to your business such as competitive advantages, as applicable.
- Environmental Factors - Determine the external and internal environmental factors, which can include economic or sociological factors that impact your division's performance.
- Opportunity and Issue Analysis - Conduct a SWOT analysis to determine any strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats that may affect your Formation and its performance.]

Crime Overview

[For geographic formations and those operationalized, intelligence and investigative non-geographic formations]

Weaknesses: The internal factors which are harmful to achieve the Formation's objectives. Consider defining identified negatives or gaps in: managerial systems and processes, performance/services offered, available resources/assets, human capabilities/skills/knowledge, existing partnerships etc.

Opportunities: The external factors outside of the Formation's control which are helpful in achieving the Division's objectives; and

Threats: The external factors outside of the Formation's control which are harmful to achieving the Division's objectives.]

VIRUS ALERT

WHATSAPP MALWARE

Cybercriminals are now exploiting WhatsApp to spread a new strain of malware known as SORVEPOTEL, using a deceptive method that preys on user trust. Unlike traditional phishing campaigns that rely on unknown senders or suspicious links, this scam is far more convincing it often appears to come from someone you know. In this alert, we break down how SORVEPOTEL spreads, the warning signs to watch for, and the immediate steps you should take to secure your device and prevent further compromise.

01/02

WHATSAPP MALWARE

SELF-SPREADING WHATSAPP MALWARE , CODENAMED SORVEPOTEL

SORVEPOTEL is a malware that spread itself through WhatsApp messages. It tricks users into opening a ZIP file; once executed, it uses WhatsApp Web to forward itself to contacts and groups.

HOW THE ATTACK WORKS

Compromised contact sends a message with a ZIP attachment.

You download and opens the ZIP file

Inside is a Windows shortcut (.LNK) disguised to appear like a document or installer

This script downloads and installs the hidden malware onto your system

This malware relaunches each time you boot. Once WhatsApp Web is active, the malware uses your account to send identical infected ZIP

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF

- Open ZIP or shortcut files in a sandbox
- Disable WhatsApp Web when you are not actively using it.
- Keep Windows & antivirus updated.

IF YOU THINK YOU ARE INFECTED

- Log out of WhatsApp Web and disconnect your PC from the network
- Run a full scan of your systems.
- Change your WhatsApp account sessions (Settings → Linked devices → log out everywhere).
- Inform the Technology Branch via 948tech@jcf.gov.jm
- Notify contacts to ignore any suspicious messages they received from you.

Breast cancer often shows no early symptoms. When present, symptoms may include:

- Breast pain or lump.
- Nipple changes or discharge.

Doctors focus on risk assessment during medical history, as symptoms may appear only in later stages.

Screening

Screening detects disease before symptoms appear and improves treatment outcomes.

Average Risk:

- Ages 25–39: Clinical Breast Exam (CBE) every 1–3 years.
- Ages 40–69: Annual CBE and mammogram.
- 70+: Annual CBE.

High Risk:

- Family or personal history of breast cancer, or prior chest radiation.
- Mammogram (40+) and possibly MRI (start ~10 years before relative's diagnosis).
- Referral to a specialist for ongoing follow-up.

If screening shows abnormalities, further tests (MRI, biopsy, CT scan) are done to confirm diagnosis and stage.

Treatment

Depends on whether the cancer is localized or spread (metastatic).

Localized:

- Surgery: Lumpectomy (tumour removal) or Mastectomy (entire breast).
- Post-surgery: Radiation and/or chemotherapy.

Metastatic:

- May include surgery, chemotherapy, radiation, or palliative care — focused on comfort and quality of life for patients and families.
