Sub. No. 1 THE COMMISSIONER'S CORNER

Greetings again my distinguished Colleagues,

I trust that you have been having a great week at work and at home. As at midnight on Tuesday of this week – March 18 – we have completed one year as a team that I have the honour of leading. They say if you love what you do, then it is not work. Well, if I am to go by that, I will have to find something else to say to my kids when I leave home in the mornings, because I keep telling them I am off to work. Colleagues, it is a good day to be a member of our noble JCF. I want to thank you for believing in the vision, and for demonstrating that understanding and belief every day. Remember my dear Colleagues, our vision is not to be narrowly defined as fighting crime, it is about helping to build a nation. Do you remember the story of the 3 men who were breaking stones? Well, we are not just simply breaking stones, we are building a cathedral. Our work continues, and so, let us look forward to this new year and aim to further improve upon what we have so far delivered. To do this, I call upon Commanders at all levels to continue to lead your subordinates with distinction. Remember, it is compassion in leadership that makes the difference between persons having to work, and persons wanting to work.

Colleagues, effective leadership is the cornerstone of the success for which we aim. Strong leadership goes beyond the maintenance of order – it is about inspiring your men and women to follow you in achieving our goals and realizing our vision. Our leadership should foster integrity, and ensure the continued trust of the Jamaican people. And so, as we look towards the future, we must ask ourselves: How do we cultivate the next generation of leaders within our ranks?

While I seek not to give you a lesson in leadership, as I am fully aware of the immense investment in you, both by the organisation and personally, in leadership development, I want us to have a discussion around this very important area. Consider this a discourse to refresh ourselves on the elements of effective leadership.

Colleagues, leadership in our context goes beyond issuing directives; it requires vision, resilience, and a deep commitment to service. Given the very complex nature of policing in Jamaica, for you to be effective as a leader, you have to have an unmistakable commitment, and strong resilience. I know that sometimes when the pressures of the job get to you, the thought of quitting is always there as an option. But you have never taken that path – why? Because of commitment. I also know that sometimes when you wake up to a terrible situation in your space, even after significant effort to prevent it, you are disappointed and it is sometimes frustrating. But you immediately get back to the drawing board and get the train back on track – why? Because you are resilient. That is what is required from a great JCF leader.

A great JCF leader displays behaviours that those who are led can emulate. Commanders and supervisors, your demonstration of professionalism, discipline, and ethical conduct, set the standard for the entire Force. Let us also remember that we have to be mentors to our juniors, and are significant players in their development. We have to take interest in their wellbeing – always. The work that we do requires a clear mind. And so, we must strive towards understanding their challenges and guide them in their resolutions. Members at times will find themselves with financial challenges that we may be able to assist with, by a simple transfer that reduces the cost of travel. Believe me, you get far better results from that member, than if his or her challenge were to have been ignored.

Colleagues, as we continue our mission of safeguarding Jamaica, strong leadership will remain the foundation of our success. By fostering a culture of mentorship, and upholding the highest standards of professionalism, we can ensure that the next generation of JCF officers is prepared to lead effectively.

THE COMMISSIONER'S CORNER (CONT'D)

Colleagues, our nation depends on dedicated and visionary law enforcement leaders. So, let us ensure that those who we lead today become the great leaders of tomorrow. Let us continue to shape a future where the JCF remains a pillar of strength and service to the people of Jamaica.

My Colleagues, I wish for you and yours a blessed and peaceful weekend. Until next week, walk good.
