1.0 Introduction

The International Labour Organization (ILO) standards on decent work and elimination of discrimination in the workplace presents a platform of equal employment opportunities for both men and women characterised by equity, security, and human dignity¹. Sexual Harassment in any form runs counter to these standards, as it causes emotional distress in victims, fear and distrust of the perpetrators and a lack of confidence in accountability and staff protection systems in organizations. These conditions lead to unfavourable, hostile, and unhealthy work environments which negatively impact productivity and operational effectiveness, and ultimately organizations' ability to thrive.

The Jamaica Constabulary Force (JCF) recognizes and asserts that its human resource is its greatest asset and affirms that the creation of a work environment that respects and supports the rights and dignity of all persons is most essential. To this end, the organization deems it prudent to review and revise the existing Guidelines in Dealing with Allegations/Acts of Sexual Harassment in the Jamaica Constabulary Force².

Sexual assault and other related offences are covered in several legislations and must not be misconstrued with sexual harassment. However, persons who engage in inappropriate or unwelcomed behaviours may be cited for sexual harassment if the conduct does not reach the threshold of a crime.

Sexual Harassment is gender neutral; any person can either be a victim or perpetrator of sexual harassment.

2.0 Purpose

This document outlines the organization's policy on sexual harassment and sets out the procedure for the reporting, investigation, and resolution of complaints of sexual harassment in an effort to create and maintain an environment that is not conducive to sexual harassment.

3.0 Scope

This policy and standard operating procedures apply to all sworn and unsworn members of the JCF, its auxiliary and contractors. It covers the reporting and investigation of complaints of sexual harassment involving members and the measures available to resolve complaints which do not warrant criminal action. It also imposes responsibilities on key personnel in the reporting, investigation, and resolution process, as well as on creating an environment that discourages sexual harassment.
