VISION

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
 Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

The vision of the Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development is to be a centre of excellence in the delivery of quality educational and professional training to the members of the Caribbean regional security sector and the wider community.

MISSION

The mission of the Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development is to achieve professional excellence in the training of our students by unlocking their academic potential in an environment that is parallel to some of the leading tertiary institutions in the region.

CORE VALUE

At the Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development we value inspiring our students to achieve academic excellence. This is facilitated through the provision of a student-centered learning environment that promotes innovation, integrity, opportunity and diversity.

ADMINISTRATIVE DIRECTOR'S FOREWORD

The creation of this Staff Handbook is the demonstration of commitment to efficient and effective service delivery at the Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development. It is well evidenced that effective leadership, management, direction and coordination of man, material and money results in a high level of satisfaction from our stakeholders and customers.

This Handbook provides the essential information on policies and Programme information that defines the responsibilities of the Directing Staff. It refers to the quality standards and best practices adopted in a harmonious environment to effectively manage, organize and implement all training activities at the Faculty.

It is no easy task to manage a Faculty with varying positions, academic backgrounds, diverse thinking, values and cultures. Therefore, it is imperative to articulate clear and unambiguous information to be understood by all as we work together towards one common goal.

I thank you all for being a part of this Faculty and look forward to a great working relationship.

Shane McCalla, MSc. BA. (Hons.), Dip. Ed.
Superintendent of Police
Administrative Director

Introduction

The purpose of this Faculty Staff Handbook is to provide administrative and operational information to both administrative, management and coordinating staff. It also seeks to assist the Faculty to standardize all activities relative to the administration and management of processes in the Administrative Office and Departments in relation to training Courses.

The handbook provides general instructions for Course development, planning, delivery, evaluation, and review. While the content is general, the unique nature of Courses such as the Strategic Command, New Accelerated Promotion Programme and the High Potential Detective Programme are addressed.

The guide will address all course related activities under the following headings:

- 1.Pre - Course
- 2.Course
- 3.Post – Course

The handbook is intended to be a ‘one stop shop’ for all course development, planning, directing and reviewing matters. It also provides check sheets as ready guide to assist staff in performing their duties. The guide also provides detailed job descriptions for the Head of Department, Assistant Head of Department, Administrative Staff, Course Coordinator and Syndicate Director.

It is the intent of the editorial team that staff members will use the guide as a daily reference to assist them performing their duties.

Developing a Course Timeline

Diagram I: This diagram outlines the stages of a successful training course.

Developing a Course Timeline Checklist involves organizing tasks and identifying a time sequence. This will help keep tasks from being missed. Some things to consider when developing your timeline include:

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

- When will the course be held? Are you going to be allowed additional time to plan and/or coordinate, or will it be in conjunction with your regular job? The tendency is to not allow enough time for everything to get done. This is especially true for a course that has to be developed or adapted for a specific geographical setting.
- Contracts, travel arrangements and purchases often take months to complete.
- Steering committees, directing staff meetings are essential for successful training sessions.
- Funding, instructor selection, student selection, pre-course works are a number of tasks that must be completed along the course timeline. Allow sufficient time for each.
- Production or procurement of course materials-visual aids, workbooks, lesson plans need to be coordinated with instructor deadlines and production schedules.
- Use of computers: obtain desktop/laptop computers, set up for internet and install appropriate programs

PRE-COURSE ACTIVITIES

A. Identification of Course

Once the JCF management team has identified, a need for skills development that can be provided by a training course, the next step is to describe what the course will be and who will be attending it. The objectives of the course, and the prerequisites for student selection need to be determined. The students' level in their organization will affect the level of the training, the location and the "formality" of the training. The education and experience level of potential students is very important to developers and instructors.

B. Planning Course

Begin the process early by giving yourself at least twelve months to plan a new course. Successful courses require careful planning and continual revision. Consult with colleagues who have taught the same or similar courses to learn from their strategies and their general impressions of the students who typically take the course. If you are team-teaching, you and your teaching partner(s) should begin meeting at least twelve months in advance to discuss the course goals, teaching philosophies, course content, teaching methods and course policies, as well as specific responsibilities for each instructor.

C. Defining Course Goals

Determining the goals for the course will clarify what you want the students to learn and accomplish. Having these course goals in mind will then help you make decisions about content, teaching methods and appropriate assignments and exams

For a useful introduction to curriculum planning that begins with defining goals for student learning, rather than with course content. See Grant Wiggins and Jay McTighe's Understanding by Design (1998).

When you define the course goals, focus on student learning. One way to formulate these goals is to determine what students should be learning in terms of content, cognitive development, and personal development. Be as specific as you can and make sure that the goals define learning in ways that can be measured. Consider the following questions:

- What do you want your students to remember from your course in 5-10 years?
- How should taking your course change students?

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

- What skills should students gain in this course?
- How does this course relate to other courses in the discipline? How, then, might you define the course goals accordingly (e.g. for an introductory, fundamental, or advanced course in the discipline)?

In addition, you should learn about the students who typically take the course (their level of preparation, their majors or academic interests, etc.) in order to determine how your course will help this group of students build their knowledge and understanding of the topic.

Benjamin Bloom's Taxonomy of Educational Objectives (1956) provides a helpful framework for identifying the observable and measurable skills you would like your students to learn. As the following table shows, Bloom identified six types of cognitive processes and ordered these according to the increasing level of complexity involved: knowledge, comprehension, application, analysis, synthesis, and evaluation. This table links these processes to representative skills, as well as verbs you might use when defining course goals, developing teaching methods, designing assignments and exams, and composing questions to use in class. (See Diagram III)

Diagram III:

Category	Representative Skills	Sample Verbs to Use
1. Knowledge (memorization)	Recall, remember, or recognize information.	Define, identify, recall, recognize.
2. Comprehension (understanding)	Relate discrete facts, summarize or rephrase ideas.	Describe, compare, contrast (in your own words).
3. Application (problem-solving)	Apply rules, laws, concepts, principles, and theories to answer or solve a problem. Apply material to a new and concrete situation.	Apply, classify, illustrate with an example.
4. Analysis (dissection)	Identify the component parts of a complex whole (e.g., a phenomenon or problem). Identify the relationships between the parts.	Analyze, support, draw conclusions.
5. Synthesis (creation)	Combine two or more elements into a new (for the students) combination or set of relationships.	Predict, develop, design.
6. Evaluation (judgment)	Critically assess the quality or judge the work based on internal consistency and external criteria.	Evaluate, assess, judge.

Lorin Anderson, a former student of Bloom, revisited the cognitive domain in the learning taxonomy in the mid-nineties and made some changes, with perhaps the two most prominent ones: 1) changing the names in the six categories from noun to verb forms, and 2) slightly rearranging them (Anderson, Krathwohl, Airasian, Cruikshank, Mayer, Pintrich, Rath, Wittrock, 2000; Pohl, 2000).

This new taxonomy reflects a more active form of thinking and is perhaps more accurate:

Diagram IV

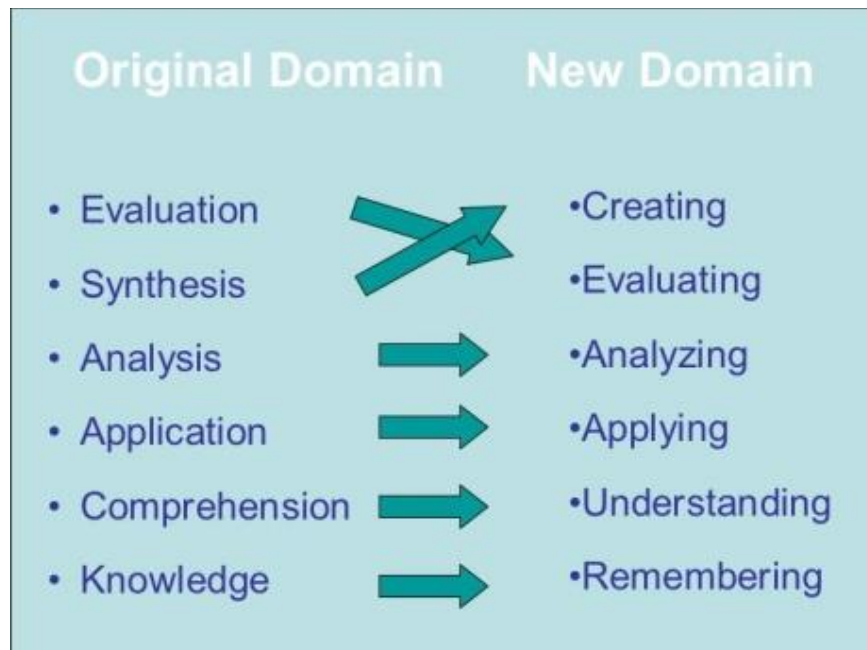

Diagram V - Table of the Revised Cognitive Domain

Category	Example and Key Words (verbs)
Remembering: Recall previous learned information	Example: Recite a policy. Quote prices from memory to a customer. Knows the safety rules. Key Words: defines, describes, identifies, knows, labels, lists, matches, names, outlines, recalls, recognizes, reproduces, selects, states.

Understanding: Comprehending the meaning, translation, interpolation, and interpretation of instructions and problems. State a problem in one's own words	Example: Rewrites the principles of test writing. Explain in one's own words the steps for performing a complex task. Translates an equation into a computer spreadsheet. Key Words: comprehends, converts, defends, distinguishes, estimates, explains, extends, generalizes, gives an example, infers, interprets, paraphrases, predicts, rewrites, summarizes, translates
Applying: Use a concept in a new situation or unprompted use of an abstraction. Applies what was learned in the classroom into novel situations in the work place.	Examples: Use a manual to calculate an employee's vacation time. Apply laws of statistics to evaluate the reliability of a written test. Key Words: applies, changes, computes, constructs, demonstrates, discovers, manipulates, modifies, operates, predicts, prepares, produces, relates, shows, solves, uses.
Analyzing: Separates material or concepts into component parts so that its organizational structure may be understood. Distinguishes between facts and inferences.	Examples: Troubleshoot a piece of equipment by using logical deduction. Recognize logical fallacies in reasoning. Gathers information from a department and selects the required tasks for training. Key Words: analyzes, breaks down, compares, contrasts, diagrams, deconstructs, differentiates, discriminates, distinguishes, identifies, illustrates, infers, outlines, relates, selects, separates.
Evaluating: Make judgments about the value of ideas or materials.	Examples: Select the most effective solution. Hire the most qualified candidate. Explain and justify a new budget. Key Words: appraises, compares, concludes, contrasts, criticizes, critiques, defends, describes, discriminates, evaluates, explains, interprets, justifies, relates, summarizes, supports.
Creating: Builds a structure or pattern from diverse elements. Put parts together to form a whole, with emphasis on creating a new meaning or structure.	Examples: Write a company operations or process manual. Design a machine to perform a specific task. Integrates training from several sources to solve a problem. Revises and process to improve the outcome.

	Key Words: categorizes, combines, compiles, composes, creates, devises, designs, explains, generates, modifies, organizes, plans, rearranges, reconstructs, relates, reorganizes, revises, rewrites, summarizes, tells, writes.

Determine Course Content

- Select the major topics and determine the order in which you will teach them.
- Select the main topics to be covered. To obtain an initial list of course topics, look in current textbooks or the current literature (for a special-topics course). Determine whether there is a consensus concerning the necessary topics by obtaining previous course syllabi and discuss potential topics with colleagues. Refine your list by considering your course goals and the characteristics of your students. At the same time, use the desired content to refine the course goals.
- Pare down and refine your initial list of topics. Instructors often plan to teach more material than they can cover in the allotted time.
- Determine the structure of the course; arrange the topics in a logical order. Developing a rationale that guides the structure of the course can help you explain the material more clearly to the students. In other words, you can discuss how and why you have organized the material in a particular way, helping them to see, for example, how one topic builds on, illustrates, or offers a different perspective on another. Articulating the rationale behind the course structure also increases and maintains the students' interest in the course content. Determining the course structure can help you decide which texts are most appropriate.

You can choose to organize the topics in a variety of ways, whether chronological, topical, conceptual, survey-oriented, or process-oriented. Think about how the structure of the course will contribute to student learning. Ask questions such as the following:

- Can I organize the topics according to a theme or storyline?
- Do I need to teach certain skills initially and then discuss applications?
- Do I want to introduce a particular theory before illustrating it with specific examples or problems?

Develop Teaching Methods and Tools

Once you have determined the course goals and content think about how you will present the content. Select and develop teaching methods and tools that are 1) appropriate for the size of the class and 2) consistent with the course goals. Consider the following questions and suggestions:

- What is your teaching style? How will you apply or adapt your style to suit the course goals, the size of the class, and the types of students who are likely to enroll?
- Which teaching methods best fulfill your course goals? (See Teaching with Lectures and Teaching with Discussions).
- When deciding whether or not you will use technology in your teaching, identify specific goals that technology will help you to reach. Plan carefully to determine how you will integrate technology with more traditional teaching tools, such as the chalkboard.
- Whenever possible, use a variety of approaches, considering that students use a diverse range of learning preferences.
- Plan to use teaching methods that will require and measure active student learning.

Determine how you will evaluate student learning: Plan assignments and exams.

Evaluations must go hand-in-hand with course goals. For example, if one course goal is to improve problem-solving skills, the exam should not contain only questions that ask students to recall facts; it should contain questions that ask students to solve specific and well-chosen problems. By the same token, homework and class activities leading up to the exam must include some questions that require problem-solving skills. Consider the following questions:

- Do assignments reflect and help achieve course goals? For example, are the papers required for the course an appropriate variety and length? How much time will you give students to complete these papers?
- Do exams and quizzes reflect course goals? Do they measure the extent to which students are achieving the learning objectives you have set out for the course?
- Will the students have an opportunity to acquire and practice the skills that are required for exams and major assignments?

Selecting Texts and Other Materials

If you are using texts, decide whether the course goals will be best met by using a published text or a course reader that compiles material published elsewhere (and unpublished material, if applicable). Take into account the cost of all materials. Consider placing some of the material on reserve at the library so that students can borrow, photocopy, or download the material themselves. Order texts early and call the bookstore about a month before the course starts to ask if the texts have arrived.

If you are compiling a course reader, consider copyright issues (see the College's guideline on copyright and fair use). If you need to obtain permission to reprint or otherwise use published material, allow at least 3 months to complete the process. Keep in mind that some publishers now offer the faculty the option of creating custom readers, for which the publisher has already obtained the necessary permissions. You can also use commercial copyright clearance services.

At least three months in advance, order text(s) and other materials, including films, videos, or software; contact guest speakers; and arrange field trips.

If you plan to use instructional technology or multimedia equipment, ensure that you will have the necessary equipment, software, and training.

Course Policies

Determine how you will grade all required work, including all assignments, papers, exams, and if applicable, class participation. Ensure that you are aware of the various policies relative to issues as tardiness, attendance problems, academic integrity, late assignments and requests for extensions or the rescheduling of exams.

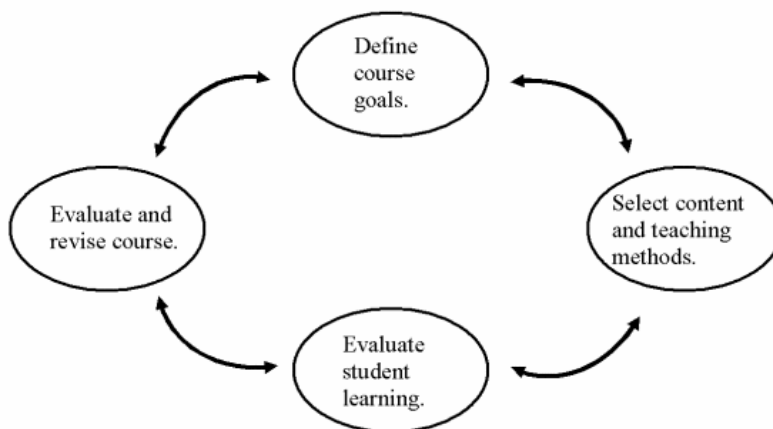

Write the Course syllabus.

At a minimum, the syllabus should contain the following: course title, time, and location; prerequisites; required texts and other materials; course topics; major assignments and exams; course policies on grading, academic integrity, attendance, and late work.

Refine the Course Design.

Course planning is a continuous process, as illustrated by the diagram below. Each step is undertaken with the others in mind and each will undergo revision each time a particular course is taught.

Diagram VI

As you plan and revise courses, remember the importance of teaching core concepts and critical-thinking skills. Focusing only on content can quickly lead you to over-emphasize knowledge-based skills and ignore the teaching of the higher-level thinking skills in Bloom's Taxonomy.

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

Application for Funds

The Administrative Director will apply for the necessary funds on a timely basis to fund the courses. The course coordinator must ensure that approval has been granted for the funding of the course. It is critical that these files are followed along the chain of command to ensure that it gets to the Director of Finance on a timely basis to ensure that disbursement is made at least two to three weeks before the course begins.

Appointment of Directing Staff

The Directing Staff which is normally comprised of the Course Coordinator and Syndicate Directors will be responsible for organizing and delivering the course in line with the objectives established by the National Police College of Jamaica.

The members of the Directing Staff as outlined in their job descriptions should also be subject matter experts. They should also have an aptitude for training and development. The following persons support the directing staff:

- Module Coordinators: This person would be responsible for the actual coordination and delivery of the specific module under the supervision of the directing staff.
- Unit Instructors/Technical Advisors - Unit instructors/technical advisors must be experienced in the lesson content they are presenting and have sufficient presentation skills to deliver the subject matter for student comprehension.

Appointment of Staff – Department of Academic Studies

The appointment of staff to the Department of Academic Studies is outlined in Appendix XI. It delineates their orientation process, conduct and dress code.

Work Plan Development

A work plan is a detailed breakout of all activities, tasks, responsible persons, and timelines that guide the successful implementation of a course. The preparation of the work plan should be guided by the training objectives and the course checklist sheet.

D. Course Announcement

Now that the course has been organized and the necessary approvals obtained, the course must be announced or advertised. Training announcements are normally published in Force Orders and or letters sent to Divisional Commanders. The course announcement should contain certain information to include:

- | | |
|---|--|
| • Purpose of the course | • Nomination deadline |
| • Objectives | • Training dates |
| • Procedure for nomination | • Location |
| • Course coordinator/contact number/email | • Unique materials needed, i.e., laptops |

- Prerequisites

Development of Time Table

The tendency is to always try to accomplish too much during each class period. Allow time for active learning to occur during class (see Teaching with Lectures and Teaching with Discussions) and for students to complete major assignments and prepare for exams. When preparing the schedule, consult the relevant academic calendars, and keep in mind major holidays and significant campus events.

1. Adequate time must be allocated to the delivery of each subject area.
2. The first hour after the opening of the course should be used for the administrative briefing.
3. Special provision must be made for administrative matters (15 minutes each morning)
4. Breaks - Ten-minute breaks are given at the end of each hour of lecture. A 15-minute 'coffee break' is given at 10:45am. Students will only be provided with coffee, tea or water. Lunch will either be served at 12:00md or 1:00pm
5. Ensure that there is no clash of lunch times with other courses.
6. Tutorial must be scheduled for one hour per week
7. Time must be allocated for courses involving physical fitness and drill. Course coordinators should ensure that contact is made with lecturers at least two months prior to the start of a course to confirm the delivery schedule.
8. Special events or social activities - field trips, tours and social events need to be carefully planned so that they do not disrupt the primary training mission
9. Each syndicate is required to plan and execute a social event.
10. A final timetable should be prepared and copied for each instructor and student. Times may need to be adjusted and instructor names will need to be added.
11. Public holidays should be identified before developing the timetable. These days are normally reserved for independent study.
12. The Administrative Director's Welcome Party should be scheduled for the first day of the course (6:00-7:00pm)
13. Use the Friday afternoon after pay day to facilitate students doing personal tasks
14. Designate the lunch period after the lecture session on etiquette to allow students to practice the skills learnt during the presentation.

Reserve Facilities and Equipment

Logistics and cost should be principal factors when considering where to hold a training session. The site must be compatible with the methods used during the training course; the characteristics of the classroom and support facilities influence the quality of the course. Consider the availability of support, e.g., copiers, phones, computers, source of emergency purchases, transportation, lodging and food, and quality of facilities, when selecting a location. Special consideration should be given to class size, group interaction, and instructional equipment.

Course coordinators must use decentralized training as a medium to take the training to the local level thus providing training opportunities for additional persons in a particular area.

It is the intention of the faculty to expand the decentralization of various programmes through technology and reorganization.

Operations Field Commander Course or Module: This course can either be held on the campus of the National Police College of Jamaica or the Jamaica Defence Force Staff College in Moneague.

Seminar/Workshop with Lecturers and Tutors

A seminar should be convened at least two months prior to the start of the course to discuss the following:

- Lesson plan development;
- Performance objectives development;
- Instructional techniques;
- Learning theory;
- Testing and evaluating techniques;
- Resource availability and use.

All tutors and lecturers must provide the Directing Staff with an outline of the course content and objectives prior to the start of the course.

Receive Nominations and Select Students

The process for selection of students can vary considerably. For some training sessions student selection will be set by the division, branch, Human Resources or an external organization. In other cases, the geographic area training committee, Administrative Director or directing staff may be the selecting group.

A recommended list of possible candidates for the leadership courses (Staff and Junior Command, Command, Strategic Command courses) will be prepared by the Staff College and submitted to the Deputy Commissioner of Police in charge of Administration for approval. The course coordinator must ensure that the general office staff follows this application to ensure the timely approval of the list of students.

Prerequisites – The minimum student prerequisites for the various courses will be clearly stated in the course prospectus.

Selection letters

The Course Coordinator must ensure that the General Office staff prepare and send out acceptance letter to candidates. A formal letter must be sent to the member's Commanding Officer. The letter of acceptance should include the following information:

- Online registration information
JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

- Dates and times of session - Provide starting and ending dates and times; attendance may require the students to travel a day before and depart the day after the course.
- Location, transportation, directions to site
- Course Coordinator's contact phone number and email
- Local information - including lodging information, map of training facility, weather, etc.
- Course roster - to facilitate combined travel arrangements of participants.
- Pre-course work
- Training Complex Directory

Registration of Students

All students must complete and return the prescribed application sheet prior to the start of the course. This is collected on the day when the students take their diagnostic tests.

Administration of Diagnostic Test

Diagnostic testing is an individually administered test designed to identify academic strengths and weaknesses, which will help the directing staff place students in syndicates as well as to develop remedial programmes to address weaknesses. Currently candidates are required to do language and information technology tests prior to the start of the course.

Instructional Equipment and Material

Instructional equipment to be obtained or reserved may include:

- Easel and flip charts, whiteboard, projection screen, computers, Student Workbook (folder) projector DVD player and monitor, lectern, extension cords, eraser, white board and permanent markers, white board cleaner etc., operational field commander's equipment such as compasses and roamers.

Most course material can be ordered through the Training Branch Finance Office.

I. Implementation Meeting

Regular implementation meetings are essential for successful training sessions. These meetings can be done by web conferencing, conference call or in person at the training site.

Pre-Course Work (to include Online Education)

Students must register online in order to commence the course. All assignments must be completed and submitted on line on or before the due date.

Confirm Lodging and Transportation

If the coordinator is arranging lodging and/or transportation, they will need to be confirmed with the Registrar of the College. For Residential courses, students are normally required to report to the institution on the evening prior to the start of the course

Prepare Class Material

It is the responsibility of the course coordinator or lead instructor to review lesson plans for subject content and adherence to standards. All visual aids (e.g., PowerPoint slides, DVDs, flipcharts, handouts, display items) and student materials such as workbooks need to be assembled and reviewed for accuracy and professional quality. Workbooks -if a workbook is being used that needs to be assembled or reproduced extra time will be necessary.

Electronic Presentations - PowerPoint presentations of all lectures will be posted on the Student Learning Portal for download.

Handouts – Handouts will either be distributed in class or posted on the Student learning portal.

Name Tags: The General Office will prepare a nametag for each student, which is to be worn and prominently displayed at all times during the course.

Set up Classroom

It is the responsibility of the course coordinator to see that the classroom will meet the needs of the training course. The room arrangement has a direct bearing on the classroom atmosphere and thus the potential for learning. Keep in mind that there is more than one way to arrange the room. Contact must be made with the Registrar who will make arrangement for the formatting of the classroom

Key points to check when setting up:

1. Audio - Plug in everything and test it. Is sound working? Locate controls and volume. Are there enough microphones? Are cords long enough? Is feedback a problem?
2. Projection station - Is it high enough? Wide enough? Is it the correct distance from the screen? Are extension cords needed or is its remote control operated?
3. Lectern - Check height, light. Is a pointer needed? Room lights - Where are the switches? Is the room dark enough for projecting? Does light from doorway hit the screen?
4. Ventilation - Will temperature remain comfortable? How is air conditioning/heat controlled?
5. Screen - Is it large enough? Is its electrical control tested?

6. Seating – Is the front row no closer than two screen widths? Is the last row no further than six screen widths?
7. Equipment and supplies - Guard against breakdown. Obtain extra bulbs, sufficient extension cords, backup computer(s), extra flip chart paper, markers, assorted office supplies, clock, trashcan, etc.
8. Ensure that the classroom to include the windows and glass doors are clean.
9. The compound is landscaped

CONDUCT COURSE ACTIVITIES

A. Course Opening

The opening exercise should be brief and should not last more than 60 minutes.

The following are the things to consider:

- Course Length
- Opening/closing - Formal or informal?

The nature of the opening/closing will determine the time spent developing objectives or an outline for the speaker. If you have a formal opening, allow time for the transition to training. Such things as rearranging the room, escorting the VIPs out and the breaks between presentations will require time.

The following are also to be done during the opening ceremony: (after the National Anthem and the departure of invited guests)

- Orientation of students to include review of:
 - a) Key sections of the Students' Handbook
 - b) Health and safety precaution and protocols
- Appointment of class captains and deans of discipline
- Activate student attendance register
- Activate lecturer attendance register

B. Administrative Director's Welcome Cocktail

The Administrative Director will host a welcome cocktail for students on the first day of the course. Business casual dress is required.

C. Delivery of Content

Duties for the Course Coordinator to perform during the course presentation in support of the lead instructor, instructors, and students include:

Maintains availability - Situations will occur; many will be logistics related. Monitor the course to curb these situations and facilitate smoothness.

Evaluate - Conduct regular review of meetings to surface any issues related to course material or delivery and to develop solutions. These can be conducted as informal sessions.

- Respond to any needs or changes as soon as possible and tell students how you plan to resolve them.

- The regular review meeting should be attended by selected students. They can provide input and feedback for the day's presentations or the next day. The use of students at the meeting will provide a cross evaluation process for the course and instructors.
- Potential student failures should be identified. All avenues for tutoring and counseling by the instructor should be completed during course presentation. A daily review of student activities at the review meeting and/or test results will provide a chance to give assistance or remedial training as needed. Students must be informed that they are not passing the course. A plan to assist the student in meeting course objectives must be made that is agreeable to both the student and instructor.

Do not allow a problem to go without being addressed and then after the course, tell the student they have failed. If a student is having difficulty with the course, provide them with alternatives to achieve the course objectives. They may accomplish this through additional study, alternative presentation modes, or assisted testing.

- The standard for passing the College courses is 60%. However, specific courses such as the OFCC will have different pass marks (See Appendix XII).
- The Course Prospectus will identify the evaluation criteria for each course to include oral and written examinations
- Students are required to pass all areas of the course which will be averaged to give a final score
- Ensure all students are given a Student Final Course Evaluation to complete prior to leaving the training session (see Appendix IX).
- Syndicate Directors should hold Tutorial Sessions with their group participants at least once per week. This is to provide feedback on course material and confidence building in the participants (See Appendix 1)

Protocols Governing the Meeting of Lecturers

- The ACP Training and the Administrative Director must be made aware of the visit of any member of the commissioning ranks to the campus.
- The member of the commissioning rank must be met and escorted to the classroom by the most senior officer present on campus
- Other senior officers of the rank of Superintendent and Senior Superintendent should be met by a member of the directing staff and escorted to the classroom.
- All other lecturers must be met by the class captain and escorted to the classroom

Introduction of Lecturers

Students who introduce lecturers on a daily basis must use the format as outlined in the Professional Students' Handbook. Please ensure to consult the General Office for a profile of the lecturer. If none is available, then attempts should be made to get a soft copy and update the database in the General Office accordingly.

Student's Luncheon

The aim of the students' luncheon is to allow them to practice their newly learned dining skills under supervision of the etiquette lecturer. It MUST be held immediately after the lecture on etiquette. Prior arrangement must be made with the canteen. It is critical that there is no other group that will be using the dining area during that period. In order to reduce this challenge, all leadership courses should begin with a two-week interval.

Meals

Breakfast, lunch and supper are provided for all residential students. No meals are served during the following times: Friday evening, All day Saturday and Sunday. Special arrangements must be made with the canteen to facilitate the serving of meals during these times. It is important that adequate communication is made with the canteen during the Operations Field Command Course to ensure that meals and water are provided during the odd hours.

Refreshment : Coffee, tea and water are provided during extended class breaks. Students may purchase snacks at the snack shop operated by the Sports Club.

Students' Performance File

Each Syndicate Director must maintain a Student Performance File that should include the following;

- Completed Application Form
- Diagnostic test results
- Record of warnings, coaching and feedback
- Students' course assignment
- Student's performance log
- Student's final exams

The Syndicate Directors must record and discuss their observations with students on a regular basis. These observations are compiled on the Individual Interview Progress Report Form (See Appendix VI) and will assist in the preparation of the individual reports at the end of the course. The completed file will be handed over to Department of Records on completion of the course.

Within two weeks after the completion of a course, Course Coordinators must submit to the Administrative Director the course report, students' personal file with the following documents: completed Staff College application form, individual course report, course work material and completed assessment tools. This file will be secured by the Registrar and will be the permanent record at the college for the student.

Examination Preparation

The preparation of the examinations for Courses is guided by the quality policy and standard operating procedures of the College. A brief guide is at Appendix VIII.

Social Programmes and Field Trips

As part of the College's holistic programme, candidates are required to participate in social activities. These social events allow students to demonstrate their creativity in social settings using a minimal budget. Classroom fines and contributions from students normally fund student social events. The directing staff must use the socials to appraise the planning and organization skills of the students.

The Directing Staff must also ensure that at least one field trip is included in the course schedule. Field trips are educational tools that help teachers to reinforce lessons and use exciting experiences to engage students. A well-organized field trip can allow students to observe a system not available in the classroom and weigh the possible benefits of adopting it. Also, a field trip is an excellent way to enhance social interaction among students.

Self-Defense and Fitness

Fitness activities must be included in all courses. The directing staff must ensure that at least one member of the course staff is supervising these activities. Instructors from FTTU and the Taekwondo Association of Jamaica generally coordinate this programme.

Taking of Group Photograph

The taking of a group photograph is one of the long-standing traditions of the Faculty. It is normally done on the day of Commissioner's presentation. The following are to be noted when taking group photos:

- Make arrangement with the photographer
- Students will take the photo in the number one uniform (includes forage cap and belt for outdoor photos)
- Ensure that chairs are provided to seat the Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner of Police – Training, Course Coordinator, and Syndicate Directors
- Commissioner will be seated at protocol center with legs open
- The most senior person will be to the Commissioner's right while the course coordinator will be to the his/her left
- Seated members to the left of the Commissioner will cross their legs left over right while those to the right will cross their legs right over left.
- Hands should be folded and placed on the thighs

Course Closure

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development

Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

The course closure will involve the following exercises:

- Exit interviews (See Appendix VII for EI Forms)
- Graduation

Exit Interview

Every student must attend an exit interview. The interview panel will be composed of at least the Course Coordinator and two other Syndicate Directors (MUST include the responsible Syndicate Director). The purpose of the exit interview is to provide candidates with an opportunity to provide oral feedback on the course as well as give the Directing Staff an opportunity to provide an overview to the candidate of his/her performance. The students must be attired in uniform.

GRADUATION ACTIVITIES

Graduation Luncheon

The luncheon is normally held just a few days before graduation. It provides an opportunity for the directing staff and students to reflect on the course in a friendly atmosphere. It is the event that the students show appreciation to the directing staff for their efforts. The programme usually takes this format:

1. Chairman's Opening Remarks
2. Prayer
3. Administrative Director's Welcome and Remarks
4. Grace
5. Serving of Meals
6. Light moments with the participants (each participant are allowed to give their reflection on the course)
7. Handing out of gifts to the directing staff by the students
8. Course Director's Response
9. Chairman's Final Remarks
10. National Anthem

Graduation Ceremony

All courses will end with either a graduation ceremony or a closing exercise. The following are to be considered when planning any such exercise. the checklist provides a guide for activities (See Appendix III)

Application for Graduation Programme Support

During the first week of all courses, the Course Coordinator will discuss and agree with syndicate directors and participants on the following:

1. Theme of the graduation or closing exercise
2. Three possible guest speakers
3. List of guests to be invited

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development

Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

4. Date of graduation/closing exercise
5. Venue of graduation/closing exercise

The Course Coordinator will submit this information to the Faculty head who will review and submit it along with an application for funding of the graduation/closing exercise to the Director of the National Police College of Jamaica for approval. Centralized Administration will be responsible for the preparation of invitations, printing of certificates and general support to the process.

1. Preparation of Programme: The course coordinator will prepare and discuss a draft programme with the administrative director. All students participating in the programme must submit their scripts to the syndicate directors for vetting.
2. Written Programme: The general office will prepare, format and submit programme to centralised administration for printing (See Appendix V)
3. Invitations (include dress code): All invitations must be prepared by the centralised administration staff. E-mailed invitations may be sent to JCF and ISCF personnel. However, please ensure that the email is received. It is recommended that printed invitations are sent to persons external to the JCF/ISCF. The initial contact should be made by e-mail to confirm their attendance. The course staff must monitor and ensure that the invitations are delivered in a timely basis. The course staff must ensure that the list of invitees is ready within two weeks of the commencement of the course.

A letter of request should be sent through centralised administration requesting that Administration Headquarters invite the heads of partner agencies such as the Jamaica Defence Force and Jamaica Customs as well as government ministers to attend graduation/closing exercises.

4. Printing of certificates and special awards: The course coordinator must submit a list of the names, assessment areas and achieved scores to the faculty head, who will review it and submit it to centralised administration. Additionally, a typed list with the students' names correctly spelled (countersigned by each student) must be submitted along with the request for certificates. A special award is given to the top performer for the course. Modular awards such as top operational field commander, individual syndicate awards etc should be considered.
5. Venue: The various classrooms and the lecture theatre are the primary locations for closing/graduation exercises. The Police Officers Club in St. Andrew is a inexpensive option that can be used for the leadership programmes (Staff and Junior Command, Staff, Command, and Strategic Command courses). Permission must be sought from the JCF Finance Branch for venues that will incur significant expenses such as the Operations Field Commander Courses held in Moneague, St. Ann.
6. Confirmation of Graduation Speaker: This must be done at least four weeks prior to the event. The directing staff should discuss the matter with the graduating class who will submit a list of at least three choices to the administrative director who will seek ratification from the Assistant Commissioner of Police in charge of the National Police College of Jamaica.

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development

Directing Staff Guide

7. Security of venue: Liase with the host division for assistance.

8. Decoration of the venue: The room should be decorated with the JCF flag and the Jamaican flag with protocol right being determined by seating of the headtable.

Graduation Ceremony Protocols

1. Graduation/closing exercises should not exceed one hour.
2. The programme must start on time (Please consult the highest-ranking officer invited to the ceremony if he/she is late prior to the start)
3. The programme should only be chaired by a member of the Directing Staff.
4. The programme MUST commence on time in line with the time stated in the invitation
5. Graduates must be attired in uniform (Number two for JCF) or business suits for non-uniform organizations.
6. Students who participate in the programme must provide a written script to the syndicate directors for vetting at least four days before ceremony.
7. The statement ‘All protocols have been observed’ is not allowed by the rules of protocols and should not be said by any participant.
8. Participants when introducing their presentation should use summary statement to recognize the persons attending the graduation such as: “Commissioner of Police, ladies and gentlemen...”
9. Male candidates should not wear caps in an enclosed building.
10. Gifts should only be given to the invited guest speaker during the ceremony. (Gifts for the directing staff must be given at the graduation luncheon which is normally held a few days before the graduation)
11. The introduction of the guest speaker should be no longer than one minute. The audience should be referred to the guest speaker’s profile, which should be printed in the programme, for additional information.
12. The chairman will appeal to the audience not to applaud each candidate when the names are called, and should instead invite a general applause at the end of the certificate distribution section.
13. The chairman of the programme should limit his/her comments and focus on the timely delivery of the programme.
14. The anthem should be played. (Make arrangement with technical support)
15. All participants to include persons handing out certificates in the programme should be duly invited and briefed prior to the ceremony.

Seating Assignment

Officiating Party

The head table at the graduation/closing exercise will have seven or eight seats. The graduation host, usually the Assistant Commissioner of Police in charge of Training, sits in the centre of the head table.

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development

Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

The guest of honour sits to his immediate right, followed by the third and fourth highest ranking guests alternating right and left accordingly (see Diagram II). The chairman position at the head table (extreme right or left) should be determined by his/her position in relation to the ranking of the members of the head table. It follows that the position of the lectern will be determined by the ranking position of the chairman. In some cases, this might be possible based on the structure of the platform.

Diagram II - Example of a Typical Seating Plan

Protocol Right

Administrative Director - SSP	DCP Administration	Commissioner of Police	Host ACP Training	Guest Speaker	ISCF Commandant	Chairman SP Joe Blogg
----------------------------------	-----------------------	---------------------------	-------------------------	------------------	--------------------	-----------------------------

Audience

Note: The Jamaica Table of Precedence must guide any seating arrangement.

Place cards should be used as a manner of convenience in seating guests and should always be placed at the head table

Graduands

The graduands will be seated in their designated seats. They must be seated at least 15 minutes before the start of the programme.

Special Guest and Visitors

The directing staff should ensure that areas are clearly marked for all specially invited persons. Ushers should be on duty to ensure the smooth functioning of the process.

Display of Flags

Placement

The custom is to display appropriate national colors and distinguishing flags in the “flag line.”

1. The flag line is centered behind the head table.
2. Flags displayed behind the head table are arranged in order of precedence. The flag of Jamaica is always located at the place of honor, that is, the flag’s own right (the observer’s left), regardless of the occasion. The JCF’s flag will be posted to the flag’s own left (observers’ right).

POST-COURSE ACTIVITIES

This section covers the course follow up. It is the responsibility of the directing staff to complete all letters, certificates, course and individual reports and the course package. These tasks should be completed within two weeks after the close of the course.

Gather Instructor Materials

Any material to be returned or retained for future training sessions should be returned or gathered, organized, and stored.

Preparation of Individual and Course Reports

The primary responsibility for the compilation of the individual report rests with the Syndicate Directors. However, the Course Coordinator is responsible for ensuring that the report format is standardized and circulated to the Syndicate Directors. The final draft of the individual reports should be vetted by the Course Coordinator who will submit them to the Administrative Director for final vetting. The reports are then co-signed by the Directing Staff. (See Appendix XIII).

The primary responsibility for completing the course report rests with the Course Coordinator. The course report must include input from the directing team as well as feedback from the students. The course report should also contain an analysis of content, visual aids, methods of delivery, prerequisites, and testing procedures.

Payment of Lecture Fee

Course coordinators should ensure that lecturers sign the attendance register, which is kept by a syndicate director. The requisite lecture hours should be submitted to the general office for the submission to be made for funding of the lecture hours. At the end of the course, the course coordinator should ensure that a copy of the timetable is presented to the general office to facilitate the payment request for lecturers.

Certificates of Completion

The National Police College of Jamaica will issue certificates of merit to students who successfully complete the course. The Faculty will no longer issue certificates of participation. The following steps are to be followed when requesting the issuance of certificates:

1. Prepare a list of the candidates with the areas of assessment, the respective grades and the overall grade average.
2. Submit the list to the Administrative Director who will review and submit the list to Centralized Administration for preparation of the certificates.

Prepare and Send Thank You Letters

Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

Thank you, letters should be sent through appropriate organizational channels, to all the individuals who participated in presenting the course.

Complete and Submit Recommendations/Evaluations

The Directing Staff must perform an evaluation of the course and submit along with the course reports and individual files to the Administrative Director.

Complete Course Package and File

The Course Coordinator should complete a course package for filing. It should contain the instructor list, student roster, testing results, evaluations and operational considerations pertinent to the course. This package can be used for future course presentations. It will provide the course coordinator with information on past courses, make the task of coordinating future training much easier, and prevent previous errors from reoccurring.

Students' Record System

On completion of a course, the Administrative Staff will be responsible for proper collection, storage and retention of all Course Grades, Coursework Examination Scripts, Attendance Records, and Course Evaluations. (See Appendix X).

Tutorial Brief for Directing Staff

Tutorial Session Notes for Directing Staff

Feedback from students and directing staff has indicated that students learn much from tutorial sessions. The College has therefore mandated a return to mandatory tutorial sessions for all courses lasting over two weeks. Therefore, mandatory tutorial sessions of once per week must be held by each Syndicate Director with his or her Syndicate group. Additionally, at least one feedback session at mid-course must be held with each participant in the syndicate. Being mindful that our courses are geared towards professional development, it is important that students have the opportunity to discuss concepts with their peers with the input of experienced course staff. Tutorial sessions are therefore an integral part of the learning support that can facilitate the transfer of training from the classroom to the work environment. While Directors, are expected to use their judgment in inserting more sessions or individualized sessions, once per week is the minimum set for whole syndicate activity. Space constraints may make more sessions challenging but Course Directors are asked to coordinate the day and times with staff from the other courses and the Academic unit personnel. Not all Directors have to schedule their tutoring activities on the same day of the week. However, once a day and time has been selected please stick as best as possible to this. Syndicate Directors in their judgment are encouraged to evaluate the students and engage in one on one session and additional sessions as thought prudent.

Recommended session length- 1 ½ hours

Purpose of sessions:

- I. To guide and assist students in the understanding of course subject material
- II. Highlight the ‘work world’ usefulness of the learning activity
- III. Assist students in confidence building and to develop independent learning skills
- IV. Gather observation data on students in small group activity. This will aid in validating the information to be included in the individual course reports.

Preparing for sessions

1. Syndicate Directors should examine the course content and define which topics are likely to pose difficulties for students and organize sessions around these topics. Observation of classroom sessions and learning log entries can also serve as adjuncts to this process.
2. It is important to inform students beforehand what constitute the core of the tutorial session so that they can come prepared to participate.
3. 30 - 60 minutes should be allocated to planning your weekly session.

Example of session activities:

Session 1 / week 1 might be composed of:

- A getting to know each other activity
- Confirming that students understand the requirements – revisiting the joining instructions, study requirements and assignments
- Facilitating students asking questions
- Setting the tone for the rest of the session

Session 2 activities

- Reviewing the material for the week
- Discussion of the general ideas from the learning logs
- Reviewing a specific assignment
- Supplying learning that participants might need to facilitate the completion an assignment

Appendix VIII: Guide to Preparing Written Examination

Preparation of Examination Papers

The faculty is committed to ensuring that final examinations are run with integrity, fairness and consistency, and that the NPCJ Examination Rules and Regulations are upheld at all times.

To support this, the faculty has prepared guidelines for the preparation of examination papers that are designed to ensure all examination papers are presented in a consistent way. All departments are asked to adhere to these guidelines, and all final examination papers submitted to the examination's office will be screened to ensure they are presented in accordance with these guidelines.

General Principles

A final examination paper consists of three components: (i) the front page (Page 1) that contains all instructions pertaining to the examination; (ii) the examination questions (page 2 – end); and (iii) the back page (not included in the page count). All final examinations submitted to the examination's office must also be accompanied by an examination coversheet that should be completed in full and signed by two examiners (one of whom should be the head of department or his/her nominee). These signatures verify that the examination paper has been carefully proofread by at least two staff members.

Using graphics

Many examination papers do include graphics, for example, diagrams, photos or other images. If using graphics, please ensure that these will photocopy accurately.

Use of calculators in final examinations

Where permitted, please ensure that students are told about the provisions well in advance (restrictions or no restrictions). It is helpful for candidates if the rules for the final examination remain the same as for any term tests they have sat in that subject.

Pens, pencils and erasers

These are not supplied to the exam room, and candidates are required to provide their own. Please make sure candidates are aware of this prior to the examination period, particularly if pencils will be needed (for multiple choice sections, for example).

Candidates are admitted to an examination room ten minutes before the examination is due to begin. (Candidates in larger rooms may be admitted earlier to enable them to be seated in time for the examination to begin.) Answer books and examination papers (face-down) are laid out in advance. Once seated in their examination room, candidates may complete their attendance slip and other details on the covers of their answer book, but may not turn their examination paper over until given the instruction to do so.

This means the time candidates will require to read the examination paper needs to be allowed for within the total duration allocated for the examination in question (usually either two or three hours).

Confidentiality

You are asked to keep in mind, and to make clear to other staff involved in preparing examinations, that all examination work (including the publication of reports, comments, marks or results) is treated by the administrative staff of the National Police College of Jamaica.

Guidelines for Proofreading Examination Papers

Proof Reading Checklist

Review the coversheet and instruction page (page 1) of the exam and confirm:

- It's the correct exam – the exam/paper code on coversheet matches the attached exam.
- That the account code is provided on the coversheet.
- Contact details – name and contact details (for the exam day) are provided on coversheet.
- Signatures – the coversheet has two signatures confirming it has been proof read.
- Exam details – the Calculator/Embargo/multiple choice/Other Materials/Open Book categories have been completed.
- Other instructions - any other instructions noted on the coversheet are clear and on page 1 of the exam if applicable.

On page 1 of the exam, check the following:

- The correct paper code, title and year are noted in the title box, and all match the coversheet.
- The duration is included, and matches the coversheet.
- Do the instructions relating to calculators or Open Book status match what is on the cover-sheet?
- If total marks are provided, is the total correct?

Check the pages of the exam as follows:

- The total number of pages is noted on page 1 and, after counting, the numbers are in sequence and correct.
- TURN OVER has been added at the bottom right of page 1 (and all subsequent pages except the last page).
- Check the paper code (e.g. ACCT111) appears at the top right-hand corner of each page except page 1.

Carefully read page 1 and check:

- Are the instructions to candidates sensible, clear and unambiguous?
- Are they consistent?

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

- If Part A is referred to, is there a Part A in the body of the exam, or does it read Section A?

Carefully read the exam paper and check:

- Typographical errors, spelling, grammar, punctuation, etc.
- Any ambiguities that might trip candidates.
- Where a diagram or figure is referred to, make sure it is present and clearly labeled.
- Work through each page and check the question numbering is sequential, paying particular attention to sub-lists (Refer to the “Memo Dept Guidelines re: Exam Paper Layout”).
- That the back “Do Not Turn Over” page is present and has the correct paper code.

Remember that each exam paper comprises a coversheet, the exam paper (page 1 is always the instruction sheet) and a back “Do Not Turn Over” page. The coversheet and back page are not included in the page number count.

APPENDIX X

Faculty of Leadership & Professional Development Department of Academic Studies

Student Records System

The current student records system at the Department of Academic Studies is aimed at ensuring authenticity, reliability and accessibility of all paper and electronic records.

Designation and Custodians of Academic Records

The Department of Academic Studies is designated as custodian of academic records of students and provides transcripts to external institutions at the request of the student. Student records are stored both manually (paper) and electronically; the procedure is outlined as follows:

- Once an application has been vetted and approved and the offer accepted, a paper file is created and labeled with the name and Id# of the student.
- A copy of all correspondence regarding a student to include tuition payment receipts are placed in the file for reference.
- The students' files are stored in the student records filing cabinet alphabetically in the active students' compartment.
- The filing cabinet is kept securely locked at all times.
- Students' files are accessed by authorized members of staff only.

Academic Records – Grades

- Upon completion of final examinations, examination scripts are accessed on e-campus by the lecturer for the respective course.
- Final grades are sent via email to the Department to update students' records
- All grades are stored electronically in a Microsoft Excel worksheet and physically in grade sheet booklets.
- Grade sheets booklets are created for each cohort for the academic year
- All grade sheet booklets are stored in a securely locked filing cabinet
- Electronically stored grades are password protected on the Department's computer system
- Non-current student files and records are stored at the Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development (FLPD) store room and accessible only by authorized members of staff only.

Course Work

- Each lecturer is responsible for uploading their course work assignments on the e-campus platform
- Course work assignments are stored on the e-campus platform
- At the end of the semester, course work assignments are downloaded and stored on local computers at the Department of Academic Studies.

Uploading of Examination Scripts

- Upon receipt of vetted examination scripts, the E-Learning Coordinator is responsible for uploading the scripts on the e-campus platform prior to the scheduled date of examination.
- The E-learning Coordinator does quality assurance on the examination process and ensures that the exams are made available at the scheduled time of the examination.

Examination Scripts on E-Campus

- Student records remain on the e-campus platform for quality assurance purposes. It should be noted that each record has an audit trail to facilitate transparency in the grading process.
- These scripts are downloaded and saved on the Department's local computer as a contingency plan to mitigate catastrophic system failure.
- Access to student records on the e-campus platform is only granted to authorized Department staff members.
- The records stored on the local computers are protected by password security.
- Access to the office of the Department of academic studies is limited to only authorized personnel

Course Evaluation

- At the end of each course, a course evaluation instrument should be completed by each student.
- This instrument is uploaded on each course page of the e-campus platform.
- The results are exported and securely stored off line for future use.

Attendance Records

The attendance register is maintained by the Department of Academic Studies and is recorded for each class session both physically and electronically via the e-campus learning management system. The process is outlined as follows:

JCF National Police College of Jamaica Faculty of Leadership and Professional Development
Directing Staff Guide

JCF/NPCJ-FLPD/MAN/SFs/0029/2022

- An attendance register is created for each course delivered in the associate Degree Programme
- The lecturer is responsible for marking the attendance register at any point during the class session on line using the attendance register feature on the e-campus platform.
- A member of the Academic Unit will record the attendance of the students in a physical register.
- The maintenance and accuracy of the attendance register is vital as the information is used to determine and prepare the tuition charge form for each semester.

Accuracy of Student Records

The Department of Academic Studies strives to maintain accurate student records as this is crucial in supporting the overall learning process and provides a series of information that may be utilized both internally and externally. This process is achieved through the following procedures:

- a) Vetting and monitoring all correspondence related to the students to include but not limited to
 - Status letters
 - Transcripts
 - Tuition charges
 - Tuition arrears
 - Posting of examination results
- b) Vetting and monitoring all manual/electronic data entry related to students to include:
 - Course work grades
 - Final exam grades
 - Re-sits
 - Re-dos
- c) Storing data/information regarding students' offline. Records of electronic communication such as grades submitted by lecturers are downloaded and stored offline on assigned hard drives.
- d) Electronic communications such as grades are printed and stored to prevent the possibility of losing data or stored records due to damage to storage devices or data corruption.
- e) Records of oral communication with students are maintained through emails and hardcopies printed and stored in their respective files for future reference.

Department of Academic Studies

New Staff Orientation/Induction Policy

Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to outline the procedures in acclimatizing new staff to the processes of the Department, Programme and Student Services to ensure that all new staff receives a good start to their job function at the Department of the Academic Studies.

Policy

A new staff must be provided with an orientation within the first week of being at the Department. This process may be conducted by the immediate supervisor or the Head of the Department. The orientation should cover the following areas:

- Welcome new employee
- Tour of Department/building – location of office equipment and stationery supplies
- Explain training procedures and expectations
- Work hours
- Review of Job Description – major duties and responsibilities, performance standards
- Training
- Staff Meeting
- Dress Code
- Review Department role and security requirements
- Provide staff with keys to the Department
- Computer Orientation including login passwords, emails
- Telephone orientation with password
- Arrange for required training – computer software, Moodle Learning Management System
- Provide list of key contacts who can address specific issues

Regular staff members who have changed job roles at the Department of Academic Studies should be provided with a modified orientation as deemed necessary.

New Employee Orientation/Induction

The Head of Department and Supervisor of the Department of Academic Studies are responsible to ensure that the new staff has a positive first experience at the Department.

The induction process is used to introduce the new staff to the Department, his/her job and other staff members. The objective of the Department of Academic Studies is to ensure that all new staff is welcomed respectfully and cordially. The following procedure should be completed to ensure a smooth induction process:

- Prepare information that the new staff needs to know about the work environment.
- Inform the new staff of the key policies and procedures he/she must be aware of to avoid mistakes.
- Make arrangements for the new employee log in credentials and work space to be set up.
- Ensure all team members are introduced to the new staff in person and via email.
- Conduct a brief meeting with the new staff and confirm that he/she has read and understood the job description.
- Create a work plan with the new staff member
- Communicate the performance plan along with targets that the new staff is expected to meet.
- Ensure that all equipment, resources and opportunities are provided for the new staff to perform at a high standard.
- Observe the performance of the new staff on a frequent basis.
- Schedule a review meeting with new staff and communicate evaluation of his/her performance, accomplishments and areas in need of improvement.
- Monitor and support staff in accomplishing their performance targets.

Employee Professionalism

All staff members must project a professional and favourable image of the Department of Academic Studies to its clients and the public.

The Department is committed to supporting a safe, healthy and positive workplace for all staff. There is a zero tolerance for behavior that interferes with a staff's ability to perform his/her duties. The rights, culture and dignity of all staff should be respected.

Dress Code

- All staff members are expected to maintain high standards of neatness
- Clothing should be in good condition and appropriate to the role and activities of the staff.
- Employees with question regarding dress code can be directed to their supervisors/managers.

Supervisor should take into consideration the following factors while enforcing the dress code:

- Be sensitive to gender and religion issues
- Take into consideration the employee's job function and special requirements.

PURPOSE OF COURSE REPORT

This report card is designed to provide you with an accurate interpretation of your officer's achievement on the course for the period. It emphasizes "what" participants learned and where they are on the learning continuum. It also reflects the consistency of the skills outcomes at the operational level. It will assist you and your officer in understanding areas of strength, areas for growth and strategies for improvement. The report card should be considered as an aid to a comprehensive approach to formulating workforce education and development within the organization. If you require more information, or have any questions about the information contained in this report please contact the College. Meaningful communication is important in order to support student learning.

5	Exceptional	Always exceeds expectations
4	Good	Consistently meets expectations
3	Fair	Meets the standard with minimum supervision
2	Satisfactory	Meets the standard with supervision
1	Unsatisfactory	Does not meet the required standard
Academic Assessment Grading Rubric
% scale	Grade	Description
90-100	A+	Superior – Exceptional demonstration of knowledge, skills, and attitude required on the course
80-90	A	Demonstrated outstanding knowledge, skills and attitudes required on the course.
75-79	B+	Above average – Demonstrated good grasp of the knowledge, skills and attitudes required on the course.
70-74	B	Average – Demonstrated a fairly good grasp of knowledge, skills and attitudes required on the course.
60-69	C	Satisfactory – Met the required standard.
<60	U	Unsatisfactory – failed to achieve/grasped the knowledge, skills and attitude required on the course.
Course Assessment
An assessment of participants' performance and progress was measured through a combination of oral and written, individual and group assignments. This assessment has been made against the grades achieved in the course and the competences outlined in the attached report. The report is based on evidence collated during this course and, where appropriate, the grades awarded will acknowledge areas of strengths, as well as, identifying areas for further development.
METHODS OF ASSESSMENT
Each participant was expected to score a minimum of 60% in each of the assessment area. The variety of areas assessed gave participants various opportunities to demonstrate their understanding of the subjects as against the learning objectives that have been set. Multiple assessments recognize that the cohort of participants is diverse; each having different work experiences, knowledge and backgrounds. Students were assessed both individually and as part of their syndicate group. Learning Assessment were adjudged from tutorial exercises, written content, oral presentations and classroom exercises.
