1. Introduction

The National Police College of Jamaica (NPCJ) Library recognizes the invaluable role that gifts and donations play in enriching our collections and advancing our mission to service our community. These contributions, generously provided by individuals and organizations, enhance our ability to support the educational and research needs of the College, and the wider law enforcement community. In this policy, we outline our commitment to responsibly manage these gifts and donations, ensuring that they align with our mission, collection development priorities, and space constraints, and strengthen our library's capacity to serve as a vital resource hub for professional development within the field of law enforcement.

2. Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to provide guidelines for the acceptance, management, and disposition of gifts and donations to the National Police College of Jamaica Library.
