1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 Overview

This Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) is a set of written instructions/guidelines that documents a routine or repetitive activity of the National Police College of Jamaica Drill and Standards Team, which must be adhered to by all training campuses. The creation and use of this Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) play an integral role in developing and maintaining a standard that meets the robust criteria/standards for the ISO9001 Quality Management System.

1.2 Benefits

The formulation and use of this SOP will promote quality through consistent implementation of each drill session within the organization. Even if there are temporary or permanent personnel changes, the standard remains the same. The SOP will eliminate miscommunication and errors in the teaching of drill lessons. This document will aid in auditing procedures to be standardized along the lines of getting certified by ISO9001 and maintaining the quality and standards of the Jamaica Constabulary Force Drill and Standards Team.

2. Purpose

The purpose of this Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) is to carry out the procedures correctly and in a manner that will remain the same so that the objectives of the drill manual will be met. Adherence to the morning discipline SOP will standardize and facilitate the consistent performance and quality of the trainees who will be under our supervision. This will produce the same result for all training campuses and reduce the margin of error when conducting morning discipline sessions.

3. RESPONSIBILITIES OF INSTRUCTORS

It is the duty of each member of the drill staff to facilitate the teaching of recruits to hoist, fold, and handle the National Flag and the Jamaica Constabulary Force Flag with utmost care and precision. The instructor shall conduct a muster at the commencement of every drill session, keeping with accounting for all personnel under his or her supervision. The aforementioned muster must be recorded in the station diary immediately after every drill session by the maker.

The recruits or trainees must be inspected thoroughly to ensure that all standards/criteria are being adhered to. Where breaches are observed by instructors and there is a warrant for disciplinary actions, a report on the same must be forwarded to the Chief Drill Instructor for his immediate intervention.

4. PROCEDURES

3.1 Hoisting of National Flag and Jamaica Constabulary Force Flag

The instructor(s) supervising the drill sessions each morning is to ensure that the National Flag and the Jamaica Constabulary Force Flag are hoisted up the flagpole at 5:50 am each morning. The National Flag should never be smaller than any other flag flown at the same time. The JCF flag must be hoisted to the right of the National Flag. When this is being done, all drill movements must be done, and the parade must stand in the attention position.

3.2 National Anthem

At six o'clock (6:00 am) every morning Monday through Friday, the parade must be formed up in the attention position at the playing of the national anthem by the National Police College of Jamaica Drum Corps. Irregular conduct, such as fidgeting, is strictly prohibited by all personnel present on the drill square or within hearing of the national anthem. All persons must stand perfectly still until after the anthem has ended.

3.3 Muster

Before the start and conclusion of each drill training session, a comprehensive muster must be recorded by a member of the instructional staff. This should include, but is not limited to, the names of persons who are sick, on exemptions, absent, on duty, off duty, excused, at the first aid post or medical services branch, on pass, or otherwise engaged. Each of these must include the trainee or recruit's name, regulation number, squad, and batch. Where it is discovered that a trainee or recruit has an exemption letter, he/she should NOT be permitted to participate in drill sessions. The muster should be reported to the Chief Drill Instructor upon his arrival on the drill square. The muster must be recorded in the drill diary immediately after the session concludes, to support accountability.

3.4 Briefing

The instructor tasked with briefing the trainees or recruits must be guided by IRIMACH:

I-Information: Relevant facts of the operations

R-Risk Assessment: Identifying the risks for appropriate response

I-Intention: Purpose, objectives of the operations

M-Method: Plan, how the purpose will be achieved

A-Administration: Support, equipment welfare, debriefing

C-Communication

H-Human Rights-PLANJM

All information given during a briefing session must be clear and concise. If there are ambiguities, the same should be resolved immediately before the trainees or recruits execute any drill movements. All that is expected from the trainees during the drill session should be communicated in the briefing sessions. The instructors should facilitate questions by the trainees or recruits, and at the end of the briefing sessions, it is vital to ascertain if the information that was disseminated was understood by all. The lesson for the day, based on the drill syllabus, should be discussed prior to the lesson starting.

3.5 Inspections

The instructors present at drill sessions must inspect the trainees or recruits every morning before the lesson is taught. This is to ensure that each member is alert and healthy and that their clothing and equipment are serviceable and clean. The recruits' general deportment must be noted in the following areas: shaving of head and facial hair/combing of hair, laundered and ironed bush cap, clean and short fingernails, ironed t-shirt and PT-shorts with seams, black or blue socks, burnished combat or regulation boots with the absence of lint and loose threads hanging from their garments. Where students are found in contravention of this, the same should be noted. After two (2) warnings, actions may be taken with the guidance of the Chief Drill Instructor.

3.6 Recap of Previous Lesson

The drill instructors have a responsibility to recap the last lesson that was taught before introducing a new lesson. This should be done at each drill session to confirm that the trainees/recruits are assimilating the lessons from the drill syllabus so that no one is left behind, as also to ensure that when it is time for their drill assessments, each person is competent to reproduce what was taught.

3.7 Introduction and Teaching of New Lesson

All instructors MUST be guided by the Drill Manual of 1990, prepared by the Ministry of Defense, on how to introduce new lessons utilizing correct phraseology and the sequence of instructions that are given. The instructor should be guided by section 4(0116) of the drill manual, which outlines the following:

Formation of the squad/batch: Ensure the squad is comfortable and not facing the sun.

Explanation: Express what you are about to do and the importance of it.

Demonstration: This should be done with a complete demonstration while shouting the words of command. Then demonstrate by numbers, pointing out the important details. Then another complete demonstration should be done.

Question: After giving the first demonstration by numbers, ask the squad or batch if they have any questions, and do so after each successive demonstration by numbers.

Practice: After each demonstration by numbers, practice the squad in that movement and check for faults. Finally, after demonstrating the whole movement, practice the squad judging the time.

3.8 Issuing and Collecting Weapons

It is the duty of the CDI designates to issue each trainee constable with rifles for the purpose of rifle exercises at drill sessions. Trainee constables should be sensitized with proper handling techniques of the weapons. Any trainee constable found operating contrary to terms and conditions will be penalized. The instructor(s) should arm each trainee immediately after morning musters are held. Instructors should ensure that the trainee constables clean their weapons. Upon the conclusion of each lesson, the rifles should be returned to the student armory by each recipient. Except in special cases, another trainee constable will be permitted to hand in a rifle for another member. All rifles should then be collected and accounted for by the armory supervisor.

3.9 Debriefing

After the completion of each drill session, a debriefing must be done. The sub-officer or CDI should be guided by the following debriefing format: PIICTS:

P-Personnel: Roll call

I-Information

I-Identify strengths and weaknesses

C-Communication: Check for breaches or damaged equipment

T-Thank the trainees/recruits

S-Supervisor/Sub-Officer: Write reports

3.10 Student Safety

The CDI or his designate should ensure that all drill movements are carried out in the correct and safe manner by all recruits/trainee constables. No exaggeration of movements should be done. If this is observed, a member of the team should correct the same immediately. Where push-ups are given, it should be done in an area free from debris to eliminate injury to a recruit/trainee constable.

3.11 Documentation

Upon the conclusion of each drill session, the designated personnel shall complete all entries in the drill diary. This should be done immediately after each session for the maintenance of records and accountability. Each entry should be formulated as per policy.

3.12 Review/Revision

Where new policies are implemented, the SOP for morning discipline should be reviewed and revised after a twelve-month time frame. This will be for completeness and accuracy, as well as to identify areas for improvement, addressing gaps or inconsistencies, updates, or making additions and/or eliminations as required to maintain high quality and standards in keeping with the Jamaica Constabulary Force Strategic Priorities for Organizational Restructuring and Capacity Building.
