Unit

- Curriculum Development and Coordination Unit.

These faculties and departments all offer training to the Jamaica Constabulary Force (JCF) and its partners. As such, the following process is used to monitor and evaluate the training delivery of all stakeholders. (Please note that this process will be inserted in the Revised Training Policy and is also broken up in other policies such as: The Quality Assessment Policy, The NPCJ Quality Policy, The Quality Control Mechanism Policy, The Training Impact Evaluation Policy and the Training Needs Standard Operating procedures)

TRAINING STANDARD

Probationary Training

2 years of training for all probationers (new members of the JCF) classroom and experiential learning

In-service and Professional Training

Orientation – one week upon promotion to inspector and the Officer Corps with further training at the earliest next possible opportunity.

In service Training

Driver Training

Participants are selected to become drivers based on the expressed needs of the divisional commander. Further refresher and requalification training are then instigated for those participants who may need contemporary training or who have been reassigned to a driving role.

Firearms, Operational and Tactical Training

All participants from the Basic Training Level will undergo this training. On a biennial basis, based on Force Orders, the police is required to under Requalification exercises and further tactical training based on the requirements for the roles and positions they occupy such as the Operational and Support Team.

Advanced Training (Leadership and Professional)

Advanced Training is one of the methods used to improve the professional competence of those members of the Force who have demonstrated leadership capabilities. It is designed to impart higher level supervisory and management skills to these members and enhance their career development in a manner consistent with the goals and objectives of the Force.

All Members of the JCF who have been considered for promotion, will be selected for training in preparation for the rank/role for which they are being considered.

Corporals, Sergeants

This category of persons are selected for and have successfully completed training ahead of being promoted the training standard for inspectors is currently being developed.

Inspectors

These persons will be engaged in professional development training which allows them to be fit for purpose in the desired rank at the various formations. These individuals will be positioned in courses such as the Staff and Junior Command Course and the Inspector Orientation Course.

Command and Strategic Command

These levels of trainings seek to professionally develop members of the JCF who are of the rank of Superintendents through to ACP's.

Specialized Training

Specialized training shall be provided for personnel entering areas requiring specialized expertise or knowledge. Such training shall be held whenever necessary to ensure a full complement of trained personnel for deployment.

Detectives

All persons who are being considered for the role of detective should complete the Major Investigations Level: Core Skills., upon completing this course, successful participants will be admitted and observed in the Criminal Investigations Branch where they will be observed based on their performance and suitability and be recommended to participate in The Major Investigations Level Two: Detective Training, once completed these participants will be recommended for the role of detective.

Specialized training for Formations and Divisions are typically conducted external to the NPCJ. However, these training activities are reviewed and approved by the ACP Training, who is the signatory of the certificates to be delivered to participants.

Associate of Science Degree in Criminal Justice

This course is opened to both civilian and law enforcement personnel intent on getting academic qualifications.

Key Performance Indicators and Objectives

As a means of aligning the training process to quality, the following key performance indicators and objectives are used to inform the NPCJ's outcomes for all training.

KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS	OBJECTIVES
Customer Focus and Relationship Management	• Satisfying the customers' quality needs • Provide training that promote secure and cohesive environments • Comply with legislations, regulations and policies • Meet organization objectives • Protect services against social, criminal and other adverse conditions • Define and control internal processes • Communicate and use specific standards as condition of doing business and being engaged with stakeholders
Evidence-based Decision-making	• Conduct credible and reliable research on trends and outliers pertaining to training. • Use valid methods to gather and analyze data. • Collect data from a variety of local, regional and international sources. • Analyze and check data to ensure that it is reliably and accurately establishes the needs of stakeholders. • Make relevant data available to stakeholders. • Make decisions based on the facts learned from the data in addition to the combined experience and intuition of stakeholders.
Contemporary and Continuous Improvements	• Implement policies to establish product, process, and system improvements as measurable goals for individuals, teams, and departments. • Identify, acknowledge, and encourage innovation to improve processes and development. • Encourage employees to participate in available training sessions to learn and take on new and additional roles.
Process Approach	• Define and delineate clear roles and responsibilities so everybody knows who does what at certain times. • Identify specific activities that need to be completed to achieve the desired result.

	• Analyze and measure training activities to see where improvements can be made or where steps in the process are creating blockages. • Evaluate the impact NPCJ processes and activities may have on customers, suppliers, and all stakeholders.
Engagement of People	• Establish an official line of communication so that all employees know about updates, policy changes, and new processes. • Involve employees in decision-making processes and outcomes. • Communicate the roles, responsibilities of employees and discuss how they fit in with the rest of the company.
